- 1) to contribute actively to the achievement of the goals of the Association and affirmation of sociological profession;
- 2) to observe the professional code of ethics;
- 3) to participate in the activities of the Association in line with his/her own interests;
- 4) to pay the membership fee no later than 31st March for the current calendar year;
- 5) to perform other jobs entrusted by the Presidency.

Article 10

The membership in the Association and the rights arising from it shall be automatically suspended in case of the non-payment of the membership fee for the current calendar year within the deadline from Article 9, Item 4) or generally in case of the non-payment of the fee for a certain calendar year. Such suspension shall cease in the first following calendar year after the payment of the membership fee within the deadline stipulated by this Statute.

The Presidency of the Association makes a list of the members of the Association on 1st April of the current year.

Internal organization and representation

Article 11

The bodies of the Association are the General Meeting, the Presidency, the Committee for Professional Matters, the Supervisory Committee, and the Court of Honour.

The Association is represented by the President of the Presidency and in his/her absence by the member of the Presidency appointed by the Presidency.

The General Meeting

Article 12

The General Meeting of the Association is composed of all its members.

The General Meeting meets regularly once a year. In the year when new bodies of the Association are elected (Article 13, Items 5 through to 8), the electoral session of the General Meeting must be held no later than 31st October of the current year, whereas the newly-elected bodies shall take office on 1st January of the following year and their mandate shall begin as of the date when they take office.

An extraordinary session of the General Meeting may be scheduled upon the reasonable proposal of the Presidency, as well as at the initiative of one third of the members of the General Meeting or minimum 30 members. The initiative is submitted to the Presidency in writing and it must contain the matters proposed for consideration. An extraordinary session of the General Meeting must be held within maximum 30 days of the day of the submission of the proposal for its convening.

A session of the General Meeting is convened by the President of the Presidency or a member of the Presidency appointed by the Presidency, in a written notification about the time and place of the General Meeting and the proposed agenda which is published on the website of the Association within maximum 5 days prior to the day for which the session of the General Meeting is scheduled.

The session is chaired by a person who was elected by public voting at the beginning of the session, together with two more members of the Working Presidency elected by the General Meeting.

Article 13

The General Meeting:

10. considers and adopts the financial plan and statement;
11. decides about status changes and the cessation of the work of the Association;
12. decides about joining federations and professional associations in the country and abroad;
13. elects honorary members;
14. makes the final decision about the reception of members or the cessation of membership;
15. decides about the members' complaints regarding the decisions of the Presidency;
16. decides about setting up branches and sections;
17. performs other jobs stipulated by this Statute.

Article 14

The General Meeting validly decides when there is more than one third of the members present at the session.

If the session is not attended by the required number of the members, the session shall be postponed one hour. If after the postponement there is still an insufficient number of the members, the General Meeting can validly decide if it is attended by half of its members plus one more member than the number of the members from the previous Paragraph, i.e. more than one sixth of the members.

The General Meeting makes decisions by the majority of the votes of the present members.

Voting at the session is public unless the General Meeting decides differently.

Article 15

For the purpose of performing certain jobs, the General Meeting may set up permanent or temporary working bodies: commissions, committees, working groups etc.

The decision on setting up the bodies from the previous Paragraph determines the tasks, composition, method of work and all other matters regarding their work.

The Presidency

Article 16

The Presidency is an executive body of the Association and/or of the General Meeting, which between two sessions of the General Meeting manages the work of the Association and decides about all matters within its competence and in line with this Statute, the law and the professional code of ethics.

Article 17

19. decides about initiating the procedure for the indemnification in the cases listed in Article 25, Paragraph 2 of the Law on Associations and, as appropriate, appoints a special representative of the Association for that procedure;
20. performs other jobs stipulated by this Statute;
21. decides about other matters for which other bodies of the Association are not authorized according to the law or this Statute.

Article 21

The President of the Presidency represents the Association in legal transactions and has the rights and obligations of the financial principal. In the President's absence the Presidency may authorize another member of the Presidency to represent the Association and sign all financial and monetary documents on behalf of the Association.

Article 22

Sessions of the Presidency are held as appropriate and minimum four times a year.

Sessions of the Presidency are convened and chaired by the President, and in case he/she is indisposed, by the member appointed by the Presidency.

The Presidency validly decides if its session is attended by the majority of its members and makes its decisions via the majority of the present members.

Article 23

The work of the Presidency is public.

Representatives of collective members, branches and sections of the Association can participate in the work of the Presidency, but they are not entitled to make decisions and have only the advisory vote.

The Committee for Professional Matters

Article 24

The Committee for Professional Matters of sociologists takes care of the rights, interests, public reputation and dignity of sociologists on the occasion of their employment and in their professional, scientific and public work.

The Committee particularly:

1. takes care of the employment of sociologists and proposes measures for reducing their unemployment;

Article 26

The Committee meets as appropriate, minimum once a year.

Sessions of the Committee are convened by the President, at the request of any member of the Association.

As a rule, the releases of the Committee are published in the "Sociological Review".

The Supervisory Committee

Article 27

The General Meeting appoints the Supervisory Committee consisting of three members.

The Supervisory Committee appoints the president from its ranks.

The mandate of the Supervisory Committee is four years and no one can be re-elected as a member in its composition.

Article 28

The Supervisory Committee controls financial operations of the Association and with no delay informs the Presidency about any observed irregularities.

The Supervisory Committee submits a report at each session of the General Meeting.

The Court of Honour

Article 29

The Court of Honour ensures that the conduct of the members of the Association is in line with the sociologists' professional code of ethics and with elementary moral norms.

Article 30

The Court has three members appointed by the General Meeting from the ranks of its most reputable members.

The Court appoints the President from its own ranks.

The mandate of the President and the members of the Court is four years, with the possibility of re-election.

Article 31

The Court of Honour meets as appropriate.

Sessions of the Court are convened by the President at the request of any body or member of the Association.

The applicant is obliged to justify his/her application in writing to the Court of Honour and to submit evidence of the alleged violation of sociologists' professional ethics or elementary morals.

Article 32

At its session the Court of Honour considers the submitted application and, if necessary, acquires further evidence.

The Court must ensure that the members against whom the complaint has been filed can become familiar with the complaint and to present his/her defence to the Court.

As a rule, decisions of the Court of Honour are published in the "Sociological Review".

Branches and sections of the Association

Article 33

The Association can have branches as organizational units on the territorial basis if in a specific territory there are minimum 20 members who apply for the work in a branch to the General Meeting or the Presidency.

The General Meeting or the Presidency decides about setting up branches upon the proposal of the interested members.

A branch can have its separate account.

Members of the branch harmonize its internal organization, forms and method of work in their separate Rule Book, in line with the provisions of this Statute.

Branches independently dispose of the material resources gained on their own, whereas the funds gained through the Association shall be booked as a separate item in the records of the Association.

Annual work programs and plans are submitted by the branches to the Presidency and the General Meeting of the Association for consideration.

Article 34

The Association can set up sections as organizational units based on professional interests if minimum 20 members of the Association apply for the work in a section to the General Meeting or the Presidency.

Members of the section can also be members of other professional associations or outstanding scientific and public workers.

The General Meeting or the Presidency decides about setting up sections upon the proposal of the interested members.

A section can have its separate account.

Members of the section determine its internal organization, forms and method of work in its own Rule Book, in line with the provisions of this Statute.

Sections independently dispose of the material resources gained on their own, whereas the funds gained through the Association shall be booked as a separate item in the records of the Association.

Annual work programs and plans are submitted by the sections to the Presidency and the General Meeting of the Association for consideration.

Journals and other publications of the Association

Article 35

The Association has its own journal, the "Sociological Review", which is published four times a year.

Article 36

The "Sociological Review" is edited by the Editorial Board consisting of six members and the editor-in-chief.

The members of the Editorial Board and the editor-in-chief are elected by the General Meeting of the Association from the ranks of the members holding a university title or a scientific title.

The Editorial Board ensures the editing of the journal in line with the highest standards for publishing periodicals, which includes consistent adherence to the norms from the general act of the relevant government body regulating the publication of scientific periodicals, double-blind editing, electronic check-up for plagiarism, allocation of UDC and DOI label to each article, article classification, electronic editing of the journal and undertaking other measures and procedures with the aim of improving the quality of the journal and the papers published in it.

The Editorial Board particularly ensures the journal categorization by the relevant ministry of the Republic of Serbia for the field of science, as well as the indexation of the journal in international and domestic scientific periodical bases.

Upon the proposal of the editor-in-chief, the Editorial Board can appoint the deputy editor-in-chief from the ranks of the Editorial Board.

The Editorial Board can make a decision about publishing a theme edition of the journal. Such decision in the form of an invitation letter to the members of the academic community is published in Serbian and English on the website of the "Sociological Review" with the elaboration of the thematic framework of that edition.

Upon the proposal of the editor-in-chief, the Editorial Board can appoint a guest editor for a certain edition of the journal from the ranks of recognized scientists outside the ranks of the Editorial Board or an editor of the edition or thematic block from the ranks of the Editorial Board.

Upon the proposal of the Editorial Board, the Presidency can include foreign members-associates into the ranks of the Editorial Board.

The members of the Editorial Board from abroad are not included in the decision-making quorum.

Foreign members-associates of the Editorial Board promote the journal "Sociological Review" abroad and can be invited to review the papers, edit some of the theme editions, make their contributions or in any other manner specifically contribute to the development of the journal.

The mandate of the members of the Editorial Board and the editor-in-chief is two years, with the possibility of re-election.

Article 37

The "Sociological Review" is published in bilingual format: in Serbian, specifically in Cyrillic, and in English.

The journal "Sociological Review" also has an online edition and is available in the open access regime.

Article 38

The Association also publishes other periodicals and individual publications from the field of sociology, original and translated monographs, theme collections, most successful graduation, master and PhD papers etc.

These publications are edited by special editorial boards composed of three members appointed by the Presidency, as appropriate.

Improvement of the profession and international cooperation

Article 39

The Association ensures the establishment of sociology as a profession and of sociologists as members of the profession. In that respect, the bodies of the Association are obliged:

1. to consider the extent to which the specific work places in work and other organizations and institutions correspond to the profession of the sociologist;

2. to make complaints and proposals regarding job determination and job descriptions of the work places occupied by sociologists;
3. to intervene in the event of inappropriate ranking and evaluation of the sociologists' work places.

Article 40

The Association cooperates with other professional and scientific organizations for the purpose of more successful performance of the tasks and achievement of the goals determined by this Statute.

Article 41

The Association can become a member of international professional organizations of sociologists and cooperate with such international and foreign organizations under the conditions stipulated by the law.

The decision about the membership in related organizations in the country and abroad is made by the General Meeting.

Awards of the Association

Article 42

The Association grants two awards as follows:

1. The award for life achievement "Radomir Lukić", which is given to an outstanding person in the field of sociology for the overall contribution and exceptional results achieved in scientific-research, educational-pedagogical and public work in a longer period of time.

2. The annual award "Vojin Milić" for the best book from sociology written by a domestic author and published in the previous calendar year.

The procedure of granting the awards and more detailed conditions for their granting are regulated in an adequate Rule Book issued by the General Meeting.

Decisions about granting the awards are published on the website of the Association and can additionally be published in the "Sociological Review" as well.

As a rule, the awards are presented at the sessions of the General Meeting of the Association, in their ceremonial part.

Publicity of work

Article 43

The work of the Association is public.

Working and professional meetings of the Association are publicly advertised and access to such meetings is free.

Sessions of the General Meeting are open to the representatives of the public media.

Current information in relation to the work of the Association is published on the website of the Serbian Sociological Association and the information in relation to the journal "Sociological Review" is published on the website of the journal or on both websites.

Article 44

The Association can invite representatives of other professional, social and political organizations to the sessions of the General Meeting and its bodies for the purpose of considering matters of mutual interest.

Article 45

The Presidency ensures that the members and the public are regularly informed about the work and activities of the Association, directly or via internal publications, i.e. via public releases or in any other adequate manner.

Reports on the work and material operations of the Association are published on the website of the Serbian Sociological Association and the major ones are, as a rule, published in the "Sociological Review" as well.

Annual calculations and reports on the activities of the Association are submitted to the members at the session of the General Meeting of the Association.

Article 46

The Association can publish its own internal information bulletin.

The editorial board of the bulletin composed of three members is appointed by the Presidency.

Administrative jobs

Article 47

Regarding the performance of administrative jobs, the Association can have full-time or part-time professional associates.

Manner of acquiring funds and disposal of material resources

Article 48

The Association acquires funds from the membership fees, research projects, publication activity, government and other donations, private contributions and gifts, legacies, financial subsidies and in any other legally stipulated manner.

The Association can also acquire funds from seminar registration fees and from other forms of education and professional specialization in the field of sociology.

Article 49

The amount of the annual membership fee is determined by the Presidency.

Article 50

All financial funds of the Association are kept in a single bank account.

Operational financial funds are separated.

The revenues and expenditures from the publishing activity in relation to the "Sociological Review" and other publications are kept separately from the revenues and expenditures in relation to other activities.

Orders for the payment of the funds for the journal "Sociological Review" are signed by the editor-in-chief of the "Sociological Review", whereas all other orders are signed by the President of the Presidency.

Cessation of the work of the Association

Article 51

The Association shall cease its work based on the decision of the General Meeting, when the conditions cease for the achievement of the goals of the Association, as well as in other cases stipulated by the law.

Article 52

In case the Association ceases to operate, the entire property of the Association shall become the possession of the Ministry of Science of the Republic of Serbia.

Appearance and content of the seal

Article 53

The Association has a round-shaped seal. "Serbian Sociological Association – Belgrade" is inscribed on the internal side of the circle, where along the middle there is the Cyrillic abbreviation "ССД" written in a straight line.

The Association has its office stamp (stamp). The office stamp is square-shaped; on the upper horizontal line there is the Cyrillic name of the Association written in capital letters "СРПСКО СОЦИОЛОШКО ДРУШТВО"; below it there is the text "No. _____" in the centre (with the blank line left for entering the reference number), while the third line contains "_____20_____" (where the date and the calendar year should be entered on blank lines). In the centre of the fourth line there is the inscription "БЕОГРАД" in large Cyrillic letters.

Article 54

The Association has its logo. The logo of the Association is displayed in Annex 1 to this Statute.

Interim and final provisions

Article 55

All matters which have not been regulated by this Statute shall be directly subject to the provisions of the Law on Associations.

Article 56

The members of the International Scientific Council of the Sociological Review, who have been appointed by the Presidency of the Serbian Sociological Association at the proposal of the Editorial Board, shall become foreign members of the Editorial Board – associates, with the mandate expiring on the date of expiry of the mandate of the entire Editorial Board.

Article 57

This Decision on amendments and supplements to the Statute of the Serbian Sociological Association shall come into force on the date of its adoption at the session of the General Meeting of the Association held on 25th October 2019 at Mećavnik.
